Am so excited to hear about your latest work in progress. The day I flew in the King Air with you, you looked so exhausted -- and I felt a little worried about you, to see you so tired.

I'm still amazed at the energy you've had. I was completely floored to hear your news. When I was pregnant, I definitely slowed down -- and you could tell I was off my mark.

How wonderful for you and Todd. And how nice it will be for all of us to have a new baby in our midst. I always thought the world would be a better place if our leaders could sit in a chair at the start of each day and hold a baby.

You will be one of those rare leaders in history, who will have the ability to do so.

Blessings on your family.

Just to keep you two up to speed on the CC. We (Tina, Leta, Ray, Franci, Marlys Hagen (DNR Support Services) and Cristin Cowles-Brunton (DNR Support Services)) met yesterday and did a quick status check on wind down activities we discussed in the larger meeting last week- Kris you were involved in that meeting. Things are progressing on the items outlined in the plan. (We have to be careful not to confuse movement with progress- we are making progress). Debts are being paid, the written concent of the shareholder for voluntary dissolution of the CC was signed and filed, the corporate records of officers directors and agent were cleaned up. The CC's attorney, Pete Ginder is gone(or winding up), and Ray Nix is the agent. DNR ARLF assumed responsibility for and charge over utilities and insurance on the Anchorage property and Palmer Property on March 1. DNR is taking possession of the financial records, etc. We are figuring out where to put and store stuff and sorting as soon as we get our arms around the project. We have the draft MOU and reimbursement agreement in to the Tina for final review that spells out what needs doing and that we get paid by the corporation. Letters have gone to creditors-at least most if not all. Tina is doing a great job as is Ray on keeping things on the front burner. The Financial services folks really are picking in and taking the initiate to herd the record cats and getting ready to paid any bills, get the mail, etc. We will have another larger status update meeting after next week. Kris we will invite you to that one.

Subject: interesting info of Gov Swift

By the end of her term, Swift was extremely unpopular with voters in the state (at one point having the dubious honor of a single-digit approval rating). This unpopularity was due in part to a perceived lack of effectiveness and in part to apparent abuses of her gubernatorial privileges, including: her use of a Massachusetts State Police helicopter to commute cross-state, from Boston to her home in North Adams; and, the use of State House aides to babysit her children.

Massachusetts does not have a Governor's Mansion. However, during the Swift Administration, it was given serious consideration. For security reasons after 9/11, Swift was driven daily to the state capital, spending up to six hours commuting as profiled on CBS's 60 Minutes <http://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/60_Minutes> . She rode in a van which had been converted into a mobile office.

In 2001, her poll numbers sinking during a political campaign, she vetoed <http://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Veto> a unanimous ruling by the Board of Appeals for the commutation of the sentence of Gerald Amirault, who was serving a 30 to 40 year sentence for molesting children at a pre-school based on suspicious evidence (recovered memories) from young children. As a result, Mr. Amirault spent three more years in prison (18 years in all). Regarding Gov. Swift's refusal to allow Amirault's release, on February 21, 2002, the Wall Street Journal, in its lead editorial wrote, "[Governer Swift] joins the long line of the ambitious and the self-seeking, prosecutors and politicians, who chose expediency over justice."

Pip and Willow came by my office the other day. Pip has been insisting since I was 24 that I'm actually 25. Now that I'm 26 she still insists that I'm 25. So anwya, she and Willow come by my office, she half climbs up on top of my desk, leans forward on her elbows and says real serious, "Ivy, are you 26 now?" I said, "yep, I'll be 27 in July." And without missing a beat she says, "Oh my gosh, you're almost 30. When you going to start having babies?" I said, "well if you stop being so picky about the people I date, I might get married and have babies." HA.

Anyway, turns out it was a fitting conversation. Have a good day and I'll see you later w/ or w/out coffee…

Im looking forward to learning more, especially to learn your interest in national politics as we get closer to convention. I do believe this country is ready for a female president (or vice-president) but it simply cannot be another run of the mill hard core feminist like Clinton. Dear Governor Palin,

First, congratulations, you know "Talis Palin" has a nice ring to it.

Last week I had talked to you briefly about a letter that we have prepared to be sent to the US Dept. of Interior. Mr. Katz has it ready to be delivered when I give it the green light. The letter, which is lengthy, basically opposes the current attempt by the Metlakatla reservation (our only reservation) to extend their ocean boundaries. Our opposition would not be well received by Metlakatla. However, the Ketchikan Gateway Borough has already filed a "strenuous objection" and the proposed expansion would clearly impact all sorts of fish stock and their management.

Can I permit Mr. Katz to release the letter?

MESSAGE:

Governor Palin-

Congratulations on your pregnancy.

I must say I was extremely disappointed, however, when I read about your shockingly cold approach to your upcoming postpartum period. Going back to the work the next day? I am sure anything I could say about infant bonding (much less than your need and right to recover after delivery) would fall on deaf ears.

In a nation that continues to trail the rest of the world in refusing to provide mandatory paid maternity leave, your very public decision to not stay home FOR ANY PERIOD OF TIME with your child only feeds the fire of those who feel pregnancy and postpartum are not worthy of special attention. Infants need their mothers. I am a working mother and a healthcare provider. I am not espousing the need to sit at home in your cabin weaving all of your children's clothing and breastfeeding until age 5, but why oh why must you so publicly proclaim that the arrival of a new child is, apparently, no big deal.

I can tell you, with great certainty, that if a low income or minority woman delivered a child, and then stated her intention was leave that child with someone else the very next day...there would be a social services referral. Of course, you will not be treated that way. I have no doubt you love your children, but will the earliest days of your child's life really be worth trading for returning immediately to the goverorship? You don't need to stop working, but I do wish you would stand up a little more for mothers and children.

-Julia Mitzel

Subject: Alaska Gas Pipeline

Governor Palin,

We support efforts to benefit all of Alaska's people and not just a few in powerful political positions as our state works out plans to build a natural gas pipeline. The AGIA is a positive step forward as a conceptual framework. The oil companies have bullied Alaska long enough. Don't allow them to bully our state officials anymore. Notice that they are not running away from Alaska. They are not happy with their record profits; they want it all. The all Alaska pipeline concept also deserves another look if it can meet the general AGIA. It appears that the oil companies didn't want to share in the project with Alaskans and didn't cooperate with the writing of the all Alaska project. We have lost all trust in the oil companies who care only about their profits and could care less about making Alaska a better place to live for its citizens. Alaska citizens are watching their legislators actions and voting records more closely. Public trust has been eroded & the corrupt politicians that serve themselves before the people are on their way out.

Remember that Alaskans not living on the road system whether in the bush or in southeast are proud Alaskans too. Our Marine Highway is our road system. It deserves your support. The ferry system needs proper maintenance, updated equipment and there is no reason for the schedule not to come out on time. Please be a governor for all of Alaska not just the people on the road system.

Congratulations on your expected child due in May.

Respectfully,
Chris & Martin Niemi

MESSAGE:

Dear Governor Palin:

Well, first, my best to you and yours and the upcoming birth of your child.

I am writing to let you know that the underlying problems of the gas line could possibly be solved by using our own financing to build this and in addition selling stock in a state owned company to achieve that financing.

I contacted the Solaris Group which encourages governments to develop their own resources. I presented a Plan that would have the State of Alaska start a Company which would hire a managing entity and then hire the pipeline contractor of their choice.

Solaris stated to me it was very novel and deserved serious consideration and review. Up to you.

Your pick of the Canadian company was perfect and I presented this company as being the most capable long before any pick was ever made.

A oil company does not build a pipeline, a pipeline company does and any company can hire them to do just that.

A Company hires managers to manage. The owner of the company can audit any company under them at any time for full disclosure and accountability.

As far as raising funds goes, the state would put up what they felt comfortable with. The rest would come from selling stocks in that company to the residents of the State of Alaska first and any additaional funding could then be raised through the sale of national and then international stocks.

The Alaska gas line was listed in the top 5 most profit producing projects in the world last year in major investment journals.

An example of raising funds would be Blackrock Investments being able to raise $17 billion in 6 or 7 months just on speculation. If the lease holders did not ship the gas in Alaska's Pipeline pull the lease or tax them for nonproduction.

Lots more of course but I am not a financial person and do not have staff to look into this.

Thank you,

J.

Dear Gov. Palin,

First of all Congratulations on your pregnancy!

Next, I would like to ask that you consider the needs in the South Goldenview area. The area has grown alot and the congestion around the School, the intersection at Rabbit Creek and Goldenview is the only exit from the hillside above Goldenview Dr. The Fire Department has to go down Rabbit Creek Rd. to Goldenview Dr., then up one of the other roads to get to a fire. Alot of precious time is wasted. If there were a need to evacuate the upper hillside, they would have to battle alot of traffic. If the Mountian Aire extension was put in, they would have a straight shot right to the upper neighborhoods.

Thank you for your consideration on these projects.

Sincerely

Cheri Ford

Dear Gov. Palin,

Congratulations on your pregnancy.

A former Alaska resident, I was inspired to check your biography after reading the news. Your name sounded awfully familiar, and I was trying to determine if you were the mayor of Wasilla while I was in Anchorage, in the late 1990s. Surprisingly, your official biography is rather vague on this. May I suggest you have your Web people fill in these details? Others may want to know, especially if you end up as McCain's running mate!

Thanks and regards,

Dear Governor Palin,

The National Republican party needs you. You would be a perfect running mate for Sen. McCain. With you beside him, our party can win the upcoming Presidential election. I realize how much you must love Alaska, and I'm sure that you want to stay there. However, I implore you to come to our rescue. Please show the rest of the country that there is a wonderful, God fearing, family oriented, capable, conservative female public servant, who has the proven ability to lead our party and our nation. You WILL be the first lady President of the United States, if you will be our first lady Vice President.

God bless you and your family.

Chamber Praises Stimulus Bill

Lobbying Produces Results for Business

The U.S. Chamber helped push through Congress a $168 billion economic stimulus package designed to spark small business growth and revive a struggling economy.

The package includes $51 billion in benefits aimed at businesses. Specifically, it would allow American businesses that buy new equipment this year to deduct 50% of the cost of their investment in 2008. The remaining value of the investments would be depreciated over the life of the item beginning that year. The agreement also nearly doubles to $250,000 the Section 179 expensing limits for small businesses.
